Course Description and Aims | Whāinga o te Akoranga

Introduces marketing techniques used to create and evaluate new concepts and business opportunities. Including concept generation, product and service prototyping, product and service integration, concept testing and concept communication.

This course aims to deliver specific techniques and concepts that will reduce the chance of the market-related failure of new products and services. The course is divided into four specific sections. Idea and concept generation; concept testing via market research and information gathering; concept testing via prototypes and pre-launch/early life communications strategy. The course delivers these skills via a series of 13 two-hour seminars, readings and three assignments. A single class example will run through the entire course. For the assignments, students will select an area in which they have specific skills and knowledge, and will develop a new market offering within that area. It is expected that the idea will be a service or will have some significant service element to it. Nearly all products have such a service element, and around 80% of the economy, and thus of new marketing offerings, is service based.

Students may be asked to prepare for a class by either readings or by performing a small 'homework' task either alone or in a group.

Assessment | Aromatawai

All material presented is examinable (except where stated otherwise) by assignments and the final examination. All-important assessment information such as due dates and times, content, guidelines and so on will be discussed at lectures and, where appropriate, detailed on Blackboard. Students are responsible for ensuring that they are aware of this information, keeping track of their own progress, and catching up on any missed classes.

Assessment	Due date	% of final grade	Requirements to pass this course
Individual concept generation report	17 March, 1:00pm	20%	There are no terms requirement. A 50% grade overall is required to pass this course.
Individual product/service development report	12 May, 1:00pm	50%
Individual/group presentation	30 May	30%

Course Requirements

There are no terms requirements. A 50% grade overall is required to pass this course.

Assessment Format

The course is assessed via three pieces of internal assessment. The first individual written assignment (20%) is directed at equipping students with a viable product/service idea/concept, and is informed by Seminars 1-3. This Assignment has a limit of five pages. The second individual written/technical assignment (50%) is informed by Seminars 9-10 and is directed at developing the product service 'proper'. The output here is a report of no more than 15 pages and at least two prototypes, one of which one must be financial. The final individual assignment is a short commercial presentation which is informed by Classes 11 and 12 and presents the communication plan as an addendum to Assignment 2 with the course lecturer playing the role of an appropriate audience (buyer/channel member/backer) agreed with the student.

Referencing Style

For this course the referencing style is APA. Style guides are available on the University Library website: <https://www.otago.ac.nz/library/referencing/index.html>

Late Assignments

The standard late penalty shall be 5% of the maximum mark per day late or part thereof.

For example, assignments received up to 24 hours after the deadline will have 5% deducted from the available grade for the piece of assessment (i.e. a 78% becomes a 73%). Assignments received between 24 - 48 hours after the deadline will have 10% marks deducted from the available grade (i.e. 78% becomes 68%). An additional 5% penalty will be applied for every day late. Assignments submitted after seven days of the deadline, or after feedback is returned if this is less than seven days, will not be marked.

All penalty timeframes are inclusive of weekends, public holidays and university semester breaks and closure times.

Group Work

If you group is experiencing difficulties, please refer to the Department of Marketing Student Guide, which is available under the course information tab on Blackboard.

Academic Integrity | Pono-ā-wānanga

Students should ensure that all submitted work is their own.

Academic integrity means being honest in your studying and assessments. It is the basis for ethical decision-making and behaviour in an academic context. Academic integrity is informed by the values of honesty, trust, responsibility, fairness, respect and courage. Students are expected to be aware of, and act in accordance with, the University's Academic Integrity Policy.

Academic Misconduct, such as plagiarism or cheating, is a breach of Academic Integrity and is taken very seriously by the University. Types of misconduct include plagiarism, copying, unauthorised collaboration, submitting work written by someone else (including from a file sharing website, text generation software, or purchased work) taking unauthorised material into a test or exam, impersonation, and assisting someone else's misconduct. A more extensive list of the types of academic misconduct and associated processes and penalties is available in the University's Student Academic Misconduct Procedures.

It is your responsibility to be aware of and use acceptable academic practices when completing your assessments. To access the information in the Academic Integrity Policy and learn more, please visit the University's Academic Integrity website at www.otago.ac.nz/study/academicintegrity, or ask at the Student Learning Centre (HEDC) or the Library, or seek advice from your paper coordinator.
